

A BREATHTAKING ART

Joel Myers is a rare man. He is one of the few glass designers in the world, probably the only one in the United States, who blows his own glass. He is recognized now as one of the art glass industry's leading designers: an art magazine calls his work "elegant purity, without prettiness . . . a fine mix of art and craftsmanship."

Myers is director of design for Blenko Glass Co., in Milton, W. Va., but much of the time he can be found out of his studio in the factory with the employees, working on a new piece of glass. He finds that "free exploration" gives him a better insight into design potential. And perhaps an unexpected extra; for example, he might make a mistake in carrying out a design—and end up with something better and more interesting than the original idea.

Hand glass blowing, as Myers does it, without the use of even the simplest molds, is an art which is some two thousand years old. Its methods and tools today are still not very different from those of medieval times. A quantity of semi-liquid glass is gathered on the end of a blowpipe, a hollow, iron pipe four or five feet long, with a knob at one end and a mouthpiece at the other. Then, starting with a small bubble, shape is blown into the glass piece by breath pressure. A few crude tools can be used in conjunction with the blowpipe, to squeeze, stretch or even cut the hot glass.

A simple device, the blowpipe, in the hands of a skilled craftsman, can produce an endless variety of glass pieces; the blowpipe has the same relation to glassmaking that the wheel has to engineering. Machines make glass products of relatively simple design, while blowing produces intricate and spontaneously creative work.

Joel Myers' only explanation for what basically guides him is—instinct. He says that although he follows certain fundamental rules he feels his way forward mainly by intuition.

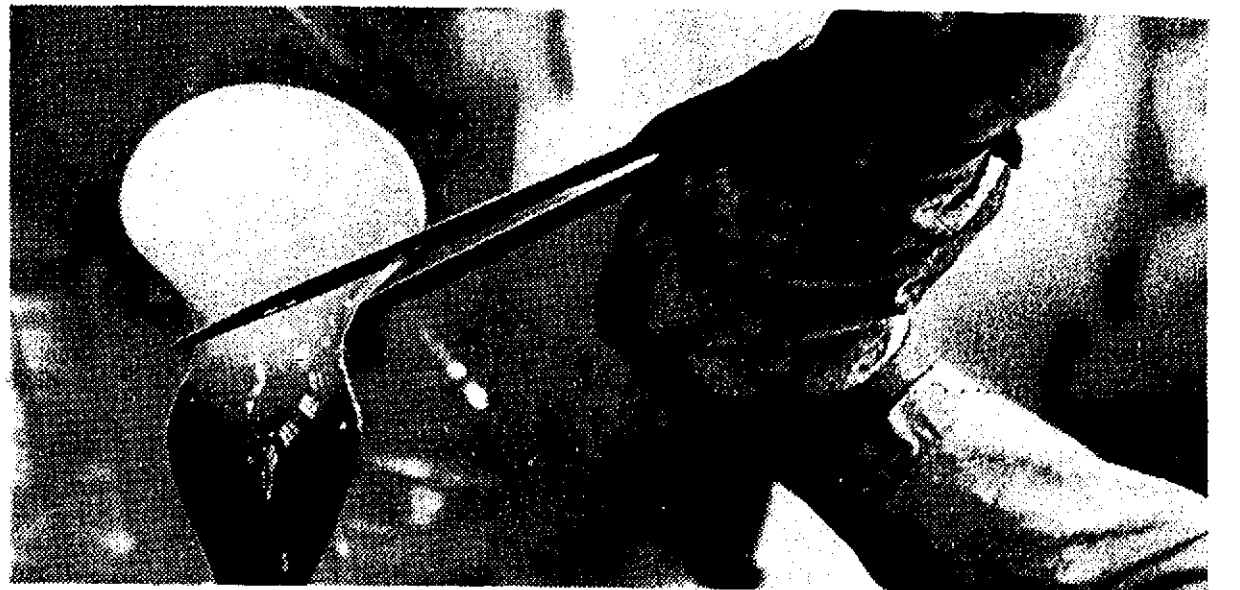

Gathering hot glass from the brick furnace.

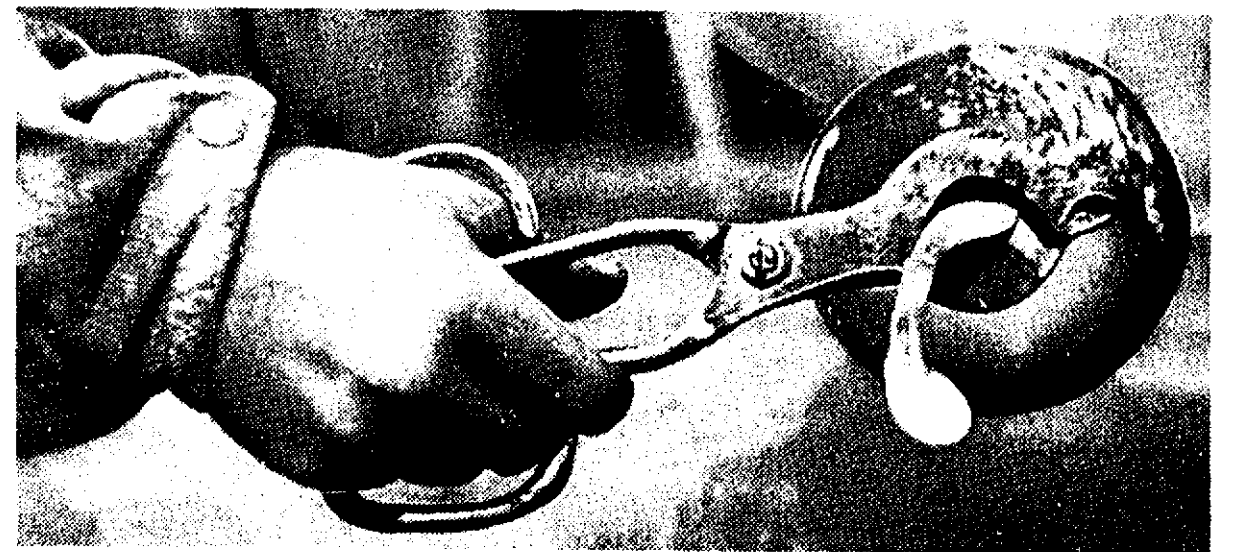

Glass must be worked quickly, during the short period when it is at exactly the right temperature, before it cools too much.

Blowing his own glass, Joel Myers gets "a better insight into design potential."

Simple tools can be used during the formation of design.

Hot glass can be shaped, pulled out or cut during finishing.

The blowpipe is a hollow iron pipe, four or five feet long, with a knob at one end and a mouthpiece at the other.

Joel Myers turns out about 40 basic designs a year and an average of 2,000 to 3,000 of each is produced for sale.

FASHION IN THE NEWS

By HELEN HENNESSY
NEA Women's Editor

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Whatever your fashion thing—dressy or demure, casual or chic—you can do it in denim this year. There are denims in stripes, solids, plaids, prints, Paisleys and even denim that resembles a textured knit weave.

If you have always wanted to be Doris Darling in a crisp-looking shift, you'll find just the right dress in a red, white and blue striped denim, gathered at the waist with a slim self-tie belt and tailored collar and cuffs.

If being Stella Stunning is your bag, there's a "ver-ry interesting" evening gown in light blue denim that is dramatic to say the least. While the dress has formal length cover-up and demure long sleeves, there's more than a hint of the nude look from midriff to below the waistline, held together with a slim T panel. The neckline is bare—with only a gold braided bra-tie to break the nude line from shoulders to hip.

Pants are paramount this year and you'll see them in denim from slim-stripe bell bottoms and culottes to all-

Demure but daring—that's denim in the light blue evening gown (left) with its cover-up sleeves and low-plunging backline and bare midriff look. By Ruth Graves of Gussie and Becky, it comes with a richly brocaded sleeveless evening coat. The colorful denim shift (right) has a gathered waist with a self-tie belt and tailored collar and cuffs. It is by Ginori of Originals.

in-one denim jumpsuits in solid colors and plaids with barrel-leg width to leisure hostess pajamas that affect the Jean Harlow look.

Then take jeans. Women are buying jeans as though they were going out of style—a paradox, to be sure, since the buying spree indicates the opposite condition. Believe it or not, jeans are being worn everywhere from posh restaurants to equally swanky movie premieres.

It was Lynda Bird's pretty sister-in-law, Trenny Robb, who skinned into jeans for a premiere. Jane Morgan says she often wears them to cocktail parties.

But space-age jeans are not the kind one used to wear to clean out the basement.

They are low hiped, snug and have a fly front for perfect fit. No bulges allowed. So unless you're in shape forget the jeans bit. But make it denim whatever you choose.

Just to prove that that old favorite fabric can do anything, go anywhere, there are even accordion-pleated pants and skirts in denim.

It's also keeping company with such fancy fabrics as chiffon and brocade, using them for complementary costume accents.

So let's tell it like it is. The next time you're invited to some soignée affair, don your denims and be the most chic chick at the ball.

HELEN HELP US!

by Helen Bottel

MEANEST MOTHER IN THE WORLD

Dear Helen: The Tomah, Wis., Rotary Club newsletter recently printed an article that I hope you'll reprint. Here it is:

I had the meanest mother in the world. While other kids ate candy for breakfast, I had to have cereal, eggs, toast. When other had pop and candy for lunch, I got a sandwich and fruit. As you can guess, my supper was different also.

But at least I wasn't alone in my suffering. My sister and two brothers had the same mean mother as I did.

My mother insisted upon knowing where we were at all times. You'd think we were at work on a chain gang. She had to know who our friends were and what we were doing. She insisted if we said we'd be home in an hour, that we be gone one hour or less, not more.

When we were younger, and we disobeyed, she actually struck us. Imagine! Now you begin to see how mean she really was.

The worst is yet to come. We had to be in bed early at night so we could get up early next day. We could not sleep till noon like our friends. So while they slept—my mother actually had the nerve to break the child labor law. She made us work! We washed dishes, made beds, learned to cook, and all sorts of cruel things. I believe she lay awake at night thinking of mean things to do to us.

She always insisted upon our telling the whole truth even if it killed us, and it nearly did.

By the time we were teenagers, she was much wiser and our lives became even more unbearable. None of this tooting the horn of a car for us to come running! She embarrassed us no end by making our dates and friends come to the door to get us. I forgot to mention that while my friends were dating at the mature age of 12 and 13, my old-fashioned mother refused me that privilege until I was 15, and then only to a school function.

My mother was a complete failure as a mother. None of us has ever been arrested or beaten his mate. Each of my brothers served his time in the Service of this country. And whom do we have to blame for the terrible way we turned out? You're right, our mean mother. Look at the things we missed. We never got to march in a protest parade, or take part in a riot, burn draft cards, and a thousand other things that our friends did. She forced us to grow up into God-fearing, educated, honest adults.

To tell the truth, I thank God he gave me the "meanest mother in the world." —READER

Dear Helen: When I was 13, I started becoming attracted to boys. I am now a male of 17, and think I am homosexual. I didn't want to be, Helen. I want a normal life and love—more than anything, I want people to love me—but I am repulsed by the thought of going with a girl. I had one experience with a boy and I ended up frightened and worried, and wanting to kill myself. I can't afford psychiatry, and besides I couldn't bear to let my parents know. Why do people make jokes about a subject that is the most terribly, crushingly painful misery in the world? And is there any hope for me? —I WANT TO BE A MAN

Dear Man: Yes, there's hope. Call the Mental Health Association in your city and ask for a referral. A few talks with a psychiatrist at a Mental Health Clinic (here, you pay what you

Steak Roll With Mushrooms

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Nutrition Editor

Try something different with steak. This combination of fresh mushrooms and flank steak, plus soy sauce and other flavors produces a delightful surprise.

MUSHROOM STEAK ROLL-UPS

1 (2 lb.) flank steak	1/2 pound fresh mushrooms
1/4 cup soy sauce	or 1 can (6 to 8 oz.) sliced mushrooms
1/4 cup Madeira or dry sherry (or water)	1/4 cup butter or margarine
2 tablespoons wine	1/4 cup chopped celery
vinegar	1/4 cup chopped green pepper
1/4 teaspoon ground black pepper	1/2 teaspoon salt

Place steak in a snug fitting casserole or baking pan. Combine soy sauce, Madeira, vinegar and black pepper. Pour over meat and marinate 3 to 4 hours, turning occasionally. Meanwhile, rinse, pat dry and chop fresh mushrooms (makes about 3 cups) or drain canned mushrooms. Heat butter in a medium skillet. Add mushrooms, celery, green pepper and salt and saute for five to eight minutes or until mushrooms are tender. Place steak on a cutting board, reserving marinade. Spoon mushroom mixture lengthwise along center of meat. Roll as tightly as possible, starting with long side, jelly roll fashion. With a sharp knife cut into 2-inch slices. Fasten each slice with skewer or toothpicks and replace any stuffing that has fallen out. Place meat on a rack in broiling pan, cut side up. Brush with reserved marinade. Place under preheated broiler, five to seven inches from heat source, and broil for five minutes on each side, basting occasionally. Four portions.

THE NATIONAL REPORT ON WHAT'S HAPPENING

THE ESTABLISHMENT STIRS: Big business starting earlier to sell its function, not necessarily its product(s). Formerly college level activity aimed more at selfish recruiting than defining our enterprise system. Many major companies are sending key executives into high schools with "the facts." Problem is that so many of the spokesmen for big business fill the stereotype of the pompous executive on a preaching tour. Proper use of film and brief personal contact on a question-and-answer basis proving to be most effective way to sell the ethics and necessary contributions that business makes to society.

SMOKER'S TOOTHACHE: One out of three dentists has never smoked, one has given it up and one still puffs away. The link between oral cancer and smoking is frightening. Death rate is about four times higher for smokers than nonsmokers.

UNDERGROUND RADIO: Not to be confused with underground newspapers. The record industry looks for a growth trend toward old-fashioned, uncluttered rock. Early starters: Elvis Presley, Fats Domino, Bill Haley and the Comets. Also, rock mixed with classical music, rock on Broadway ("Hair"). "Promises, Promises" and "Jimmy Shine." FM stations are leading the charge of progressive rock in a succeeding effort to challenge the Top 40 format.

TEEN TYPE TREMORS: Big new cap from the rumor factory—underground gossip claims cigarette makers are behind the push to legalize marijuana. Wags cite productive capacity, distribution setup, and tax machinery as the hot line items to nail it all down. Have the liquor people started their own guerrilla tactics to combat the "less dangerous than alcohol" party line of the pot pushers? Just what is the relationship of grass to cancer and heart disease?

Fashion tunes in for spring to a strong statement in black and white. Umbra of Dorothy Hubbs Donie pulls together a winner in the two-piece ensemble (left). The boldly printed dress is topped with a sleeveless coat. The little white dress (right) stands on its own at Russ in this sharp body design. The wrap skirt and trim bodice are tops in any fashion circle.

STROKE VICTIM
At the age of 4, Donna Kay Howell, now 7, is this year's official Easter Seal Child. After suffering paralysis which left her unable to stand, walk or talk, Donna Kay received treatment at the Easter Seal Rehabilitation Center in Tallahassee, Fla. Her speech defect has been corrected and she is recovering use of the affected hand and leg.

Looking for Parole Officer
SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) - Herman Samuel Martin, 27, was charged with second-degree burglary Wednesday in connection with a break-in at the state probation and parole office. Two radios were taken. Officers who arrested Martin said he told them he was looking for his parole officer.

Agree Not to Use the Term
SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) - Members of the Four Corners Regional Commission agreed informally Wednesday not to use the term "Mexican-American" in its reports.
The agreement came after New Mexico Gov. David F. Cargo objected to the use of that term in a commission staff report. He suggested the commission, a four-state economic development group, use "Spanish-speaking" or "Hispanic-American" instead.
GGTI, John Love of Colorado said even those terms were not entirely accurate. He suggested "Spanish-speaking with the exception of Puerto Ricans."

Purple Martin Is Only Bird with a Newspaper

By JIM CROSSLEY

If the Griggsville, Ill., Wild Bird Society prevails, this will be a better world for man, beast and bird.

Listen, don't shrug off the Griggsville Wild Bird Society. That is a name to be reckoned with—largely because of its monthly newspaper, another name to be reckoned with, "The Purple Martin Capital News."

From 24 to 32 pages, tabloid size, carrying no advertising, the News started out as a combination community news and bird news publication. As a result of popular pressure, it has wound up (in its fourth year) as the only newspaper published about a bird.

Residents of eastern United States are familiar with the birdhouse apartments seen high on poles in the vicinity of old farmhouses. Some of them go back almost to colonial days.

These are purple martin houses and the old residents valued the bird for its insect-eating abilities.

As nature-lovers do, it's the practice to toss about the figure of 2,000 mosquitoes a day as the average consumption per bird. However, in nature lore there is always a touch of controversy plaguing such all-encompassing facts. Every now and then, the News has to quell antimartin people who not only question the 2,000 figure but wonder if the martin eats mosquitoes at all.

Not to take sides, the bird does live on insects and it's safe to say that, in the interest of mankind, the more birds and the fewer sprayed insecticides the better.

The newspaper and the wild bird society got started when the Griggsville, Ill. Jaycees started on a big clean-up-the-mosquitoes campaign back in 1962. A local manufacturing firm de-

NO MALICE

No American who ever lived had a greater grasp of the true meaning of Freedom than Abe Lincoln, the kindly and rugged-featured man who described this nation as having been "conceived in liberty, and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal."

But Abraham Lincoln knew that Liberty could not be won and maintained by men alone. He acknowledged Divine power. The Great Emancipator made that clear in all his classic utterances. The closing lines of the Gettysburg Address is our best example: "... that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom ... and that government of the people, by the people, for the people, shall not perish from the earth." ... that is Americanism.

Costly to Builder of the Bridge

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The state says an engineering firm that designed a bridge that missed its connecting ramps and roadway by 13 feet will absorb all redesigning costs.
Taxpayers won't have to pay a cent, a Highways Department spokesman said Thursday.
Work on the interchange in the $6.9 million section of Interstate 79 in suburban Collier Township was halted when contractors building the bridge discovered it was out of alignment.
Abracadabra, the word which gave every vaudeville magician his "magical" powers, was actually believed to have supernatural power by the ancient Near Eastern Basilidian Gnostics. This mystical religious sect invoked the word to ward off evil spirits and to cure the sick.
The World Almanac says.
Written in the above design, it was also worn as an amulet for nine days and thrown backward into a

YOUR DENTAL HEALTH

Caps on Teeth Can Be Painted

By WILLIAM LAWRENCE, D.D.S.

DEAR DR. LAWRENCE:
I recently had six front teeth capped and I feel they are too light in color. Is there anything that can be done to make them darker?

ANSWER: Color of baked porcelain caps, or baked porcelain facings of gold caps, can't be altered except by rebaking them in a ceramic furnace.

Acrylic resin (plastic) caps, or acrylic resin facings of gold caps, can be tinted in the mouth with special acrylic "paint." This should only be done by your dentist because, while the technique is simple, it's a fussy job and requires the hand of an expert.

You may need a new paint job every once in awhile, because the paint wears off.
Fortunately, it's easier to darken caps than lighten them. Tobacco, tea, coffee, food stains and elapsed time are usually enough to darken them somewhat.

DEAR DR. LAWRENCE:
I'd like to know if an orthodontist can pull down a peg tooth and grind off the point to make it look like a normal tooth?—Mrs. T. L. B.

ANSWER: By way of explanation, thin, pointed, misshapen incisor teeth, commonly called "peg teeth," are hereditary anomalies usually affecting upper lateral incisor teeth.

They vary in shape and position in the jaw. Some are so small they're like dolls' teeth. Some are turned sideways. Some actually come to a point. Some are short and thin, with peglike roots.

Peg teeth are not very attractive. They may look cute in a child's mouth, but can spoil an otherwise handsome set of teeth in adults.

Mrs. B's suggestion to bring peg teeth down by means of orthodontic appliances and recontour them to resemble normal teeth is pretty clever but not practicable. Removing enough crown for this purpose would surely expose the nerve; and the root isn't long enough to be pulled down very far without loosening the tooth.

But peg teeth needn't cause cosmetic distress.
Very often these teeth can be capped with porcelain crowns. Only occasionally must they be extracted and replaced with bridgework.
This is sometimes complicated by need for orthodontic treatment in order to make the space big enough for a normal-sized tooth.

Private Barge Heads a Field of 12

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — Private Barge, winner of the Equipoise Purse, heads a field of 12 for today's Oaklawn Park feature race, the $5,000 Miss Arkansas Rodeo Purse.

Jockey R. J. Campbell is scheduled to ride Private Barge, owned by G. W.
Stephens.

The feature, which will be the eighth race, is for 3-year-olds over six furlongs under allowance conditions.

Private Barge, the probable favorite, will carry 119 pounds.
Also in the field, with the weights they are to carry, are Husker Ace (122), Movie Man
Man (119), Tamran's Jet (122), Times Moving (116), Silky Year (119), Prefer (117), Parksdale (122), Twilight
Rhythm (117), Mister Bird Dog (119), Wingo Bound (122) and Sun Helmet (116).

In Thursday's feature, Tenor, an 18-1 shot, defeated a field of seven others to win the $5,000 purse.

Tenor, a come-from-behind performer, was kept well behind the field by jockey Allen Young until more than three-fourths of the way. As the field entered the stretch, Tenor was tipped to the outside and whipped down the stretch to beat Sweet Molasses by three lengths.

Tenor covered the mile and 70 yards in 1:44 3-5 on a fast track to return $41,40, $15.80 and $5.20. Sweet Molasses paid $7.60 and $4 and Rous Record showed by $3.40.

J. Flinxpliter, ridden by Phil Grimm, won the first race and Ben Brud, with John Shaffer aboard, took the second for a daily double of $79.40.

A crowd of 7,294 wagered $527,281 Thursday.

How It's Possible
A man can serve 10 years as president of the United States. If a vice-president succeeds to the presidency and serves two years or less of the unexpired term, he may still be elected to two terms as president. If he has served more than two years of the unexpired term, he may be elected for only one four-year term.

Here is another Eddie Kantar hand. This one is taken from the pages of Popular Bridge and is extremely simple for one of Eddie's hands.

The bidding is his and since he was writing on play, he did not bother to explain the bids. We don't blame him. The hand makes four no-trump but the play is automatic. The five-diamond contract presents quite a problem because there are only 10 easy tricks and there is no way to make the 11th by sheer power.

The correct line of play, which also turns out to be a winner, is to ruff the first heart. Declarer wants to save his discard until later.
His next play is a trump to dummy's king followed by a trump back to his own hand.
Now he is ready to look for his 11th trick and the only place it can hide is in the club suit.

His first club play should be a low one to dummy's 10.
He will be home free unless East is able to win with the jack. That is just what East does. If East returns a heart, South should ruff again still keeping his discard in reserve. If East returns a spade, South should take his ace right away. If East returns a club, South should play low.

Let's assume a spade return. South takes his ace and leads his other low club to dummy's ace. He has hopes that the king will appear but it doesn't and he is down to the last shot in his locker.

He discards his queen of clubs on dummy's ace of hearts and ruffs a club.
When both opponents follow, he enters dummy with the nine of diamonds and dis-

Hope Star SPORTS

Cards Prove They Are No. 1 in State

By RALPH ROUNTON
Star Sports Editor

Poor Fairview. They proved their No. 1 state ranking correct last night at Jones Field House, but the Cardinals had to leave town unhappy with a 98-42 bulge which clinched them the 4-AA Western Division title, while leaving Hope still winless at 0-9 in 4-AA West.

Hope's "B" Lizards got the glamour, though, with a nerve-racking 76-75 double overtime victory over the Fairview "B" squad in the preliminary.

The "B" Lizards lost a 38-27 halftime lead early in the final quarter, and it took a lay up by Ronnie Massanelli with five seconds left to end regulation play at 63-63.

Junior Phil Watkins chanced a one-and-one with two seconds left in the first overtime and Fairview leading 69-68, but after popping the first one Phil just missed the second and play resumed once more.

Thomas Norvell scored three big points in the second extra period, as the total came out just enough for the 76-73 win.

Watkins sacked 20 points and James Simmons hit 13 as five locals hit the double figures. Soph Charles Rateliff netted 12, Norvell 11, and Johnny Johnson 10 to round out the first five. Below that Massanelli was credited with six points and Gary McRoy four. Rex Horne hit 19 and James Walker 15 to lead Fairview.

Those unstoppable Fairview Cardinals were just that in the finale, though, flashing out to an 18-2 lead which was never much disturbed.

Coach Pat Foster's machine kept the pace through the whole first half, rolling up a 57-21 spread by intermission and setting the stage for the run at 100 points.

It was 78-32 after three quarters, and with the 90th point the Fairview supporters went into a frenzy. Hope stalled that out by adding some of their own points and controlling the backboards in the closing moments.

Tonight Hope wraps up the regular schedule at Jones Field House against the oncoming Malvern Leopards, now third in 4-AA West. The "B" Lizards have the first game against the Malvern junior varsity at 6:30 p.m.

Valued Hair More Than His Time

HAMPTON, Va. (AP) — A 16-year-old Hampton boy today valued his hair more than his time and as a result drew a 10-day jail sentence.

Russell Wayne Moore appeared in Hampton Juvenile Court on a drunk charge. After hearing the charge, Judge Macy M. Carmel told the youth he would dismiss the matter if Moore would cut his long hair, which was combed down over the forehead.

"I'm not going to get my hair cut," Moore said.

Carmel ordered the youth to jail and Sgt. R.T. Countryma, court bailiff, took him away.

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Walt Frazier whips a pass into the pivot which bounces off the backside of the opposing center and into the hands of Dave DeBusschere, who has a clear shot. Bill Bradley shoots and the ball teeters on the rim while the players stand and watch the way a crowd does when a man is on the ledge of the 40th floor. Yes or no? Yes, it falls in.

"You know what it's like?" asked a New York Knick fan, as he chewed his program in excitement. "It's like every one of them Knicks stepped in a pile of horse manure and they come out smelling like a rose."

Larry Costello, coach of the Milwaukee Bucks, said the same thing, but in less pungent terms. "They are a great basketball team," he said. "It is a team that seems to have no weakness and you cannot gamble on them."

"They blew us out of the gym," said Atlanta coach Richie Guerin.

In the last month, the Knicks won nearly 90 per cent of their games. They jumped from sixth place to third to fighting for the lead in the NBA's Eastern Division.

The Knicks are the hottest team in pro basketball. Breaking that down it means they are (a) the luckiest and (b) one of the most skillful teams in basketball.

Their defense is remarkable. It seems they have hands springing out of the floorboards to snatch balls. They are fast-breaking with the speed and sure-handedness of the Pony Express. And they are as charitable with giving up shots as the guy in the bar who sets 'em up for the house.

A spirit of selflessness, of pure joy, of unfettered confidence spurs the Knicks and makes them the most exciting and most successful team in New York since, well, since the Jets. And that's going a piece—in results if not in calendar years.

"Everybody," said Knick coach Red Holzman, "is part of everything. DeBusschere has made a big difference since coming here in a trade. Bradley is playing better than ever. Willis Reed has adjusted to center again. Frazier and Dick Barnett are playing the offense and the defense. We call someone from the bench and he flows right in. Our trainer has helped."

"Even I have helped."

The Knicks' technique has been to grab a big early lead and let the other teams try to catch up and they haven't yet. Against Philadelphia the Knicks jumped out 10-0, then 34-19 at the end of the first quarter. They swept to a 17-4 advantage over Atlanta. It was 24-10 over Boston, 65-49 over Baltimore at the half and they took an early 25-point lead over Milwaukee.

All this despite the loss by injuries to Cazzie Russell and Phil Jackson.

As sometimes happens, the loss of key players will provide vide openings for others who respond to the challenge. This primarily fits Bill Bradley of the New York Knicks. He is starting now, in place of Cazzie Russell, and is playing the more familiar forward position rather than guard. He is playing 40-45 minutes a game, where he used to play less than 30. In a recent set of four games, he scored over 20 points three times and hit the winning free throws in the fourth.

A major reason for the New York resurgence is, of course, Dave DeBusschere. He came to the Knicks on Dec. 19 in a trade with Detroit for Walt Bellamy and Howard Komives. The Knicks had floundered in the early months, but they won two straight when DeBusschere joined the club and with him, they went on to win eight more in a row, breaking a club record.

"Dave has provided leadership, hustle and inspiration," said Russell. "When Dave says something on the court, we listen. We respect his knowledge and ability."

The Hawks' Joe Caldwell noted: "Dave makes them quicker. He gets down on the fast break where Bellamy did not. And he's not so concerned with his own offense. It seems he doesn't start driving until the Knicks are well ahead. He's looking to pass to others."

Red Holzman

With Bellamy gone, Reed went back to his "natural" position—center. He has increased both his rebounding and scoring percentages. And Barnett, the sleepy-eyed, bearded backcourt standout, is also scoring more—especially in crucial fourth-quarter situations.

"It's Frazier, though," said DeBusschere, "who is the unsung hero. He's getting us up, both on defense and offense." Walt Frazier is leading the team in assists, second in rebounds and averaging 16 points per game.

When the starters need breathers, Nate (the Snake) Bowman provides frightening dribbling with strong reboundings. Bill Hosket with a leg taped from calf to thigh hits three straight 25-foot jumpers; Don May, 6-5, outbounds centers, fakes, sinks a layup, and Mike Riordan, flapping around the court like an elf, always seems to save the ball, then spill into a spectator's lap.

"A funny thing," said Knick fan, with bits of program now at the corners of his mouth, "but look how they'll argue about something and yet no one gets mad at anyone. And then they'll be winning and they'll be laughing on the bench. They seem so happy."

Even when the Knicks blow a big lead, then have to struggle to keep the win, they still have a sublime outlook. After a big lead dwindled to a nine-point victory over the Hawks Frazier, not too straight-faced, said, "We just wanted to put on a show so the people wouldn't get bored."

But the Knicks are not always on the brink of belly laughs. After one game, DeBusschere was complaining about being called for traveling on a certain play.

"I didn't travel," he said, his eyebrows perking up in search of sympathy. "I was just doing my tricky fakes. You know, I don't do my stuff too often. Mainly because I don't have much..."

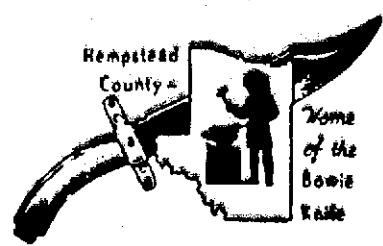

In another locker-room, where an air is heavy with frustration and sweat is as heavy as the smell of sweat, the Joe Caldwell twiddled his small Fu Manchu mustache and mused: "Way it looks to me," he said, "is that the Knicks have gone and sold their soul."

This is Updating?

For nearly 200 years, the seal of the United States Treasury has borne these words: "Seal of the Treasury of North America." Just recently, the Treasury adopted a new seal. On this one, the words are: "The Department of the Treasury."

If this is an updating, as it obviously was intended to be, it took a long time to get around to it. But then the ways of Government often are wondrously lackadaisical.

The Treasury says it can find no record of the reason for it being called the "Treasury of North America." As of the 1780s, when the design was made, there wouldn't seem to have been any reason. But as of now, in the light of the profuse disbursement of taxpayer funds all over the hemisphere, there are a good many taxpayers who will think the original seal was more appropriate, or, even more apt, "Seal of the Treasury of the Whole Blessed World." — Knoxville (Tenn.) News-Sentinel

Undertime

The tax bite is even worse than payroll deductions. The United States Chamber of Commerce has calculated that every employed American will work two and a half hours of every eight-hour day on the job this year to pay his federal, state and local tax bills.

Someone should write new words for that old song about working on the railroad: "I am working for the government." — Miami (Fla.) Herald

Auto Progress

It takes time but eventually everything comes full circle. Ford Motor Company is planning to make its new small car easy to repair, with bolt-on fenders and a simpler engine. General Motors has similar ideas about its future mini-car.

If the trend catches on and automotive design completes its circle, we can expect to see the latest thing on wheels in a few years—the 1971 Model T, completely equipped with balling wire and spare coil. — Dallas (Tex.) Times Herald

Nixon's Route Planned Very Carefully

By FRANK CORMIER

Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — When President Nixon goes abroad Sunday he will follow a route prepared by some 70 advance men and thousands of foreign policemen whose chief worry will be student demonstrators and—as a Scotland Yard official put it—"the odd man out."

Despite massive security precautions, timing and logistics will play a major role in Nixon's initial and possibly crucial contacts with leaders in Great Britain, France, West Germany, Belgium and Italy.

Detailed trip planning actually began Feb. 8 when the 70 advance men left Washington for Europe aboard Air Force One, the presidential jet. Led by White House counsel John D. Erlichman, the contingent included representatives of the State Department, National Security Council, White House Communications Agency and the Secret Service.

At the controls was the new presidential pilot, Lt. Col. Ralph D. Albright. His job was to follow the same route Nixon will follow, practicing landings and takeoffs at each airport along the way.

Erlichman's assignment was to make certain Nixon will see the people he wants to see—including some private citizens—and such selected landmarks as the stark Berlin Wall. Erlichman acted as the President's personal schedule maker.

Robert Hodak of the National Security Council staff made the advance trip to lay the groundwork for the serious talks Nixon will have with allied leaders.

The State Department official, John Thomas, went along to iron out administrative details, such as waiver of customs inspections as the chief executive and his party move from country to country.

400 Georgia-Pacific Checks Are Missing

CROSSETT, Ark. (AP) — Georgia-Pacific Corp. officials today were trying to locate 400 payroll checks reported missing between Portland, Ore., and Crossett.

A company spokesman said the checks, the first G-P checks in red ink, are missing from the company inventory.

Thursday afternoon at Crossett a man, about 30, drove into the First State Bank of Crossett and gave a teller one of the red ink checks made out on the Citizens Bank & Trust Co. at Lewisville, Miss.

The check was made out to E.A. Temple and was endorsed, the teller said. The teller went to check the endorsement with another bank employee and the young man left without the check or money.

Early Opening of Arkansas Stock Show

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Agreement was reached Thursday for an early opening of the Arkansas Livestock Exposition at Little Rock this year. Activities during the first two days will be limited.

Harvey Hewitt, manager of the Pine Bluff District Livestock Show, had objected to the exposition opening Sept. 26 because the first two days overlapped the district shows.

The agreement called for the only activities during the first two days to be the midway, grandstand show and the Hall of Industry Exhibit.

U.S. Hopes to Keep Gold Prices Stable but Not South Africa

NEW YORK (AP) — Whispers at Washington cocktail parties reach Europe as supersonic thunder. Casual remarks are interpreted as official statements. Denials are received as affirmations. Even silence is studied for meaning.

This is the gold market, a subject that to most people has become remote, boring, meaningless, but which represents to bankers, speculators and some heads of states an unbearably tense situation.

What will the price of gold be one year from now? No more than $35 an ounce if you judge from official U.S. statements. A lot more than that if South Africa, the world's largest producer, realizes its hopes.

The least suggestion of price change sends speculators to market.

Suppose, for instance, that the United States, which officially maintains the price of monetary gold at $35 an ounce, hints that there is some slight chance it might decide to pay more. Hope immediately swells in the breasts of gold holders. And those without gold rush to buy.

Something of that sort did happen not long ago. When President-elect Nixon introduced his new Treasury secretary-designate, David Kennedy, the gentleman immediately was asked the question,

"I want to keep every option open," Kennedy said, adding, "I do not want to start any rumors to cause any kind of a crisis that I will have to work on."

He got what he sought to avoid. To most people the statement was clear. Not to the goldbugs. The price of gold rose. European speculators went into an uproar. And American bankers issued wistful criticisms.

The entire international monetary structure was, in fact, shaken by Kennedy's refusal to be committed on a subject he felt was better dealt with only after he had assumed office, still more than a month away.

Careful lest he create more turmoil, the secretary-designate refrained from additional comment except to say that anybody would be crazy to speculate on what he had said. But craziness has become normal in the gold market.

The peculiar behavior goes back a long way, but it reached a crisis one year ago. At that time the United States was being forced to convert many millions of dollars into gold and ship the gold overseas.

The necessity for doing so was a commitment by the U.S. government to redeem dollars in gold. And because the United States was leaving a lot of dollars abroad, a lot of dollars were coming back in exchange for gold.

Much of this gold was getting into the hands of speculators and industrial users and leaving less and less gold for backing money, thus endangering the entire world monetary system.

To escape further danger, the big industrial nations simply shut off the drain to the private market. Instead, they decided to keep what gold they had, neither buying nor selling to speculators or industrial users.

This was bad news for private hoarders and some governments too, each of which had been hoping that the United States would be forced to raise the price of gold to, say, $70 in order to conserve its diminishing supply.

Cong Attack U.S. Bases; 249 Are Dead

SAIGON (AP) — Enemy troops attacked two U.S. bases early today; five hours before the Viet Cong-proclaimed Tet cease-fire ended. Spokesmen said these and seven other fights cost the enemy 249 men killed.

One attack was on the Phan Rang air base where former President Lyndon B. Johnson's son-in-law is stationed. But spokesmen said Airman 1 C. Patrick Nugent was on a week's leave and not on base at the time.

Seventy-five mortar shells hit the base 160 miles northeast of Saigon, wounding five airmen and causing minor damage to some aircraft. Air Force gunships raked the enemy firing positions, and South Korean troops sweeping the area this morning found blood trails leading from two mortar emplacements.

In the second attack, enemy troops charged under cover of a 30-round mortar barrage and blasted their way into a base of the 101st Airborne Division 97 miles east of Saigon. The enemy killed two American paratroopers and wounded 29 others before being driven back by the paratroopers and helicopter gunships. Twelve enemy bodies were found.

Battlefield communiques said allied forces killed at least 237 other enemy in seven fights north and south of Saigon, five of them Friday and two Thursday.

U.S. losses were six killed and eight wounded, and South Vietnamese losses were four killed and 22 wounded. U.S. spokesmen credited fighter-bombers for the 24-to-one kill ratio.

A spokesman for the U.S. A. command said the incidence of enemy actions against American and other allied forces was about the same or a bit higher during the seven-day cease-fire which ended at 7 a.m., compared to recent weeks.

South Vietnamese military headquarters reported 128 enemy-initiated actions against its armed forces and civilian population, compared to 186 enemy-initiated incidents in the previous week.

On Friday, North Vietnamese troops ambushed a U.S. Marine convoy for the second time this week. Associated Press correspondent Edwin G. White reported from Da Nang that two Marines were killed and two wounded when one Jeep in the daily supply convoy hit a mine and another came under mortar fire.

White also reported that Marines trying to choke off enemy supply lines near the Laotian border 390 miles north of Saigon uncovered a North Vietnamese engineer base and seized three five-ton trucks, a tracked loading vehicle, a bulldozer, and several truck engines, fuel drums and tires. The equipment was destroyed with explosives.

In two fights in the Mekong Delta centered 50 and 65 miles south of Saigon, South Vietnamese infantrymen reported killing 50 enemy soldiers Friday at a cost of three killed and 12 wounded.

Projects to Be First to Be Consolidated

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller announced Thursday that a program to consolidate some manpower training projects is expected to be the first to be completed in the southwest and possibly in the nation.

Rockefeller said the programs involved are the Neighborhood Youth Corps, Operation Mainstream, and New Careers, which are funded through the Economic Opportunity Act.

The governor said the basic purpose of the change was to bring the programs together in given areas with a common prime sponsor, to provide an unbroken sequence of training and work opportunities to low-income persons and to prevent duplication in some areas. Presently, the programs operate separately.

George Always a Good Boy, Said Mother of Father of Our Nation

By MARY ANITA LASETER
Star Feature Writer

On this date in 1732 the father of our country, George Washington, was born. That comes as no great enlightenment; everyone already knew that. But do you know who the mother of the father of our country was?

Her maiden name was Mary Ball, and she was born in a household of double second marriages on a plantation on the left bank of the Potomac. She was reared in rural abundance, according to reports, and this could have referred to material possessions or kinkfolk or both.

At 16 she was described as being "sweet Molly with flaxen hair and rosy cheeks, loving and modest." The family didn't have the proper social connections for Mary to meet and marry a wealthy man when she was suitably young. The fact was Mary didn't marry until she was 27. At that age the custom decreed that she must content herself with a widower. (But this was a little surprising, considering that her mother married three times and was widowed each time by the death of her husband. Why didn't she see to it that her daughter meet some "nice young man?")

We don't know. After her mother's death, Mary had no family, and the estate was handled by a lawyer of high repute named George Eskridge who also became her legal guardian. While living at the Eskridge home, Mary met and married Augustine Washington, a widower with three children. They had six more children, one of whom died in infancy. Four boys and a girl grew strong and healthy. The oldest of these was George, who was named for the lawyer Eskridge.

Mary Washington was married only a dozen years when her husband died. Her youngest child was six years of age. While there was never a hint of romance in the courtship and marriage of Mary Ball and Augustine Washington, we can be sure of one thing. He had the utmost confidence in her ability to manage her affairs and those of their children. This was shown in his will, which made her guardian of their flock. (He also provided for the children by his first marriage; they included Lawrence, who received Mt. Vernon. After his death, it went to George.)

The Widow Washington (as she was known until her death) was a firm believer in the truths of religion and taught her children the duty of obedience. Lawrence Washington once said of her, "I was ten times more afraid of her than I ever was of my own parents. She awed me in the midst of her kindness for indeed, she was truly kind."

Mary's only daughter was Eliza, who was called Betty by the family. When she was not yet 17, she became the second wife of a wealthy merchant, Fielding Lewis. The marriage had Mary Washington's approval whether it was due to her own late start in matrimony we don't know. But she wrote to a relative in London and told him what silver "would be an acceptable gift for Betty."

People liked this woman, Mary Washington, for what she was. There was no pretense—ever. She was working in her garden when Lafayette once paid her an unexpected visit. Her surprise was obvious, but she is reported to have said, "Oh marquis—I can welcome you to my poor dwelling without the parade of changing my dress." She reminded him of a matron of Sparta or Rome, he supposedly said.

In her later life her tenacity was her prime characteristic, and it came to her aid when financial reverses befell her. This tenacity was passed on to her eldest son, and without it there would have been no victory in 1871.

After George Washington became our first President, one person was giving him much flowery praise to his mother. She sounded rather like a mother when she agreed and said these words, "George has always been a good boy."

Thinks Peace Talks Near a Common Ground

By STEPHENS BROENING
Associated Press Writer

PARIS (AP) — The adversaries in the Vietnam peace talks may be on the extreme edge of the common ground which U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge declares is necessary for a start toward a settlement.

That is the cautious impression U.S. and South Vietnamese negotiators formed after Thursday's weekly meeting.

The allied negotiators found three encouraging signs during and after the weekly encounter:

1. The North Vietnamese have shifted the focus of their publicity expressed interest onto a terrain chosen by Lodge. Instead of emphasizing that the United States and the Saigon government must accept the political demands of North Vietnam and the Viet Cong, Hanoi envoy Xuan Thuy moved to the forefront his insistence that the United States unconditionally withdraw its troops from South Vietnam.

2. Lodge tried hard to reassure the other side that the United States shares their expressed view that a final settlement ought to conform to the spirit of the 1954 Geneva agreements on Vietnam.

3. The final encouraging sign was a matter of atmosphere. At their news conferences after the session, the spokesmen for North Vietnam and the NLF appeared less strident and acrimonious than they had after previous meetings. There was less name calling and no desk thumping at all.

Maneuvers May Cause Confrontation

By HUBERT J. ERB
Associated Press Writer

BERLIN (AP) — Soviet and East German maneuvers near the air corridors to isolated West Berlin could result in a confrontation with the Western allies.

The key question is whether the Russians and East Germans plan aerial maneuvers as well as ground exercises, and if so to what extent.

The Soviet announcement said only the maneuvers will take place early in March in central and western East Germany—between West Berlin and the West German border 110 miles away. Many believe the maneuvers are another Communist attempt to hinder access to West Berlin, where the West Germans will hold their presidential election March 5.

The East Germans, with Soviet backing, already have imposed new restrictions on surface travel, barring West Germany's presidential electors, their aides and members of the West German armed forces from traveling through East Germany to West Berlin. This means delegates to the West German Federal Assembly will be flying there.

If the Communists send up aircraft in numbers in the relatively narrow area, they could not avoid flying over the Berlin air corridors and possibly below the 10,000-foot level where Western planes fly.

At jet speeds this could pose an acute safety problem for airliners.

Even if the Soviets and East Germans do nothing overt in the air corridors, the announcement that they plan large-scale, high-speed air formations in the area would pose a ticklish question for the allies.

Should the air corridors be shut down until the maneuvers are finished, or should measures be taken to see that the airliners get through, with fighter escorts for example?

Since the Russian blockade in 1948-49 there has never been any large-scale Communist interference with Berlin's air corridors. But Communist planes are sighted regularly by Western airline pilots.

High-ranking U.S. officials in West Berlin do not think the Soviets are planning anything serious in connection with their objections to the West Berlin election. It is held in West Berlin every five years, and every time the Soviets and East Germans complain it is a "provocation."

BERLIN (AP) — Soviet and East German maneuvers near the air corridors to isolated West Berlin could result in a confrontation with the Western allies.

The key question is whether the Russians and East Germans plan aerial maneuvers as well as ground exercises, and if so to what extent.

The Soviet announcement said only the maneuvers will take place early in March in central and western East Germany—between West Berlin and the West German border 110 miles away. Many believe the maneuvers are another Communist attempt to hinder access to West Berlin, where the West Germans will hold their presidential election March 5.

The East Germans, with Soviet backing, already have imposed new restrictions on surface travel, barring West Germany's presidential electors, their aides and members of the West German armed forces from traveling through East Germany to West Berlin. This means delegates to the West German Federal Assembly will be flying there.
